OPENING PANEL

Today's Challenges, Tomorrow's Successes: Afterschool in a Changing World

In this opening panel discussion, we will explore the unique challenges confronting today's youth and how afterschool and summer programs, working in partnerships with schools and other youth serving organizations, can provide Nebraska youth with the support they need to thrive in school and in life. Key topics to be explored include the needs of the Whole Child, opportunities for youth to cultivate purpose, and opportunities to collaborate with school day programs to help address the lingering effects of COVID-19 interrupted learning on NE youth.

Welcome and Introduction: Dr. Alison O'Toole

Moderator: former State Senator Anna Wishart

Panelists: NDE Commissioner Dr. Brian Maher | Stephanie Malia Krauss | Dr. Anthony Burrow

SPEAKER BIOS

Dr. Brian Maher
Nebraska Commissioner of Education

Dr. Brian Maher is a long-time educator with strong Nebraska roots. Beginning as a teacher at Elkhorn and Clarks Public Schools, Dr. Maher held several administrative positions before becoming superintendent at both Centennial Public Schools (1999-2007) and Kearney Public Schools (2007-2015) in Nebraska. His last superintendency was at Sioux Falls School District (South Dakota) from 2015 to 2020; a 25,000-student school system where he led during the beginning stages of the COVID-19 pandemic. As a school superintendent, he successfully led four bond referendums in three different school districts. From 2020-23, he was the CEO of the South Dakota Board of Regents. Dr. Maher began his tenure as Nebraska's Commission of Education in July 2023.

Stephanie Malia
Krauss

Stephanie Malia Krauss is an educator, social worker, and leading national voice on preparing and caring for young people in an ever-changing world. Through her consulting firm First Quarter Strategies, she collaborates with global and national networks, philanthropies, nonprofits, government organizations, schools and increasingly Nebraska-based partners, to shape policies and practices that help young people thrive. Stephanie is the author of "Whole Child, Whole Life: 10 Ways to Help Kids Live, Learn, and Thrive," "Making It: What Today's Kids Need for Tomorrow's World," and the forthcoming "Wired to Thrive: 16 Essentials to Help Kids Navigate Stress, Mental Health, and Tough Times." Her insights have been featured on NPR, PBS NewsHour, US News, and Insider. Stephanie is a senior advisor to the Children's Funding Project and Youth-Nex at the University of Virginia.

Hear Stephanie Malia Krauss as a part of the opening panel on Monday March 10, the lunch keynote, and a Whole Child, Whole Life Coaching Session on Tuesday March 11.

Dr. Anthony Burrow

Dr. Burrow, a Lincoln High School Alumni, is also the Ferris Family Associate Professor of Life Course Studies in the Department of Psychology at Cornell University, where he is the Associate Dean for Outreach and Extension in the College of Human Ecology, and Director of both the Bronfenbrenner Center for Translational Research and the Program for Research on Youth Development and Engagement (PRYDE). Dr. Burrow received his B.A. in Psychology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and his Ph.D. in Applied Developmental Psychology from Florida International University. Dr. Burrow's research investigates purpose in life as a psychological resource among adolescents and emerging adults.

Dr. Patrick Hill

Dr. Hill is a Professor of Psychological and Brain Sciences at Washington University in St. Louis. Dr. Hill's research focuses on how individuals explore options for and ultimately commit to a purpose for life, and how having a sense of purpose predicts important life outcomes. In addition, he examines the lifespan development of pro-social personality characteristics, such as gratitude and forgiveness, as well as how these traits influence relationships. His research considers these questions with the intent of promoting healthy development from adolescence into older adulthood.

Hear from Dr. Hill for his Tuesday morning keynote: Exploring and Promoting Purpose.

SESSION 2: DISCUSSION SESIONS

Afterschool HEALS (Health, Education, Administration, and Literacy) | Banquet Hall

Since its publication in September of 2022, Richard Reeve's Of Boys and Men has spurred important conversations around boys declining academic performance, engagement in the workforce and overall quality of life. In this open discussion, we will explore boys' unique challenges, opportunities programs have to meet these needs, and BSB's new programming initiative, Afterschool HEALS, designed to increase boys' interest in the HEAL (Health, Education, Administration and Literacy) professions and career exploration.

Jeff Cole, Nebraska Children and Families Foundation

Directors/Partners

Site Coordinator Roundtable

Room A1-2

Join two seasoned site coordinators as they facilitate a discussion for site coordinators. This session provides an open forum to share experiences, explore common challenges, and exchange practical strategies that matter most to you.

Chelsea Sidel and Stacy Shepherd, Cardinal Community Learning Center

Coordinators

Policy in Action: Navigating Legislation's Impact on Afterschool Programs | Room A3

Join this session for an engaging discussion on the current state of legislation and policy and the impact current legislation may have on afterschool programs. Leave equipped with more knowledge about state-level policy!

Robert Patterson, Kids Can
Amy Bennett, Grand Island YWCA

Directors/Partners

Game On: Disruptus and The Mind

Room B1

In this hands-on session, you'll play two board games—Disruptus and The Mind—that are designed to spark disruptive thinking and creative problem-solving. Play for fun and for a chance to win a copy of a game to take back to your program!

Stephanie Vadnais and Alana Pearson, Beyond School Bells

Frontline Staff

Building Bridges: What Makes a Good Partnership? | Room B2

Join us for a discussion-based session where we explore the critical question, "What makes a good partnership?" Share your experiences of being an effective partner and reflect on the qualities that have made partnerships work for you.

Kaitlin Roselius, Woods Tennis Center

Partners

Afterschool Storytelling: Crafting Compelling Narratives for Program Success | Room B3

A well-told story can be a very powerful tool. Come explore how to harness local insights and America After 3PM data to craft narratives that spotlight your afterschool program's impact. Through this discussion, you'll walk away with fresh ideas to elevate your program in your community and across the state.

Brenda Weyers, Nebraska Children and Families Foundation

Directors

Service-Learning and Environmental Education | Room C

Service-learning is a proven approach to help build student purpose. This session will host a conversation about Service-Learning programming alongside Environmental Education. BSB will share ongoing efforts to develop programming for gardening and conservation activities. Come ready to share your own examples too!

LUNCH KEYNOTE

Whole Child, Whole Life

Stephanie Malia Krauss has become a regular in Nebraska. Over the past two years, the Illinois-based education thought leader and writer has been working closely with Nebraska 4H Extension, BSB and the NE Department of Education to help design strategies to support a Whole Child approach in ELO programs.

This lunch mini-keynote picks up where her 2024 GetConnected keynote left off – focusing on how afterschool professionals can help youth thrive in today's challenging world by utilizing a Whole Child approach. This lunch keynote will be followed by an optional roll-up-your-sleeves, extended 2-hour workshop (3:15-5:15pm) here in the Banquet Hall, where we will delve into the tools we need to bring these ideas into our practices.
